

CANVAS LMS

Official parent guide for observing student learning online

What do I use Canvas for?

- View upcoming assignments
- View subject work
- View subject events
- View assignment grades
- Engage with secondary notifications

Trinity College is launching a new way for parents to observe their child's academic progress. Canvas is a communication tool for class resources and aims to help both students and parents to stay up to date with coursework and homework expectations.

Assessment details and submission will begin to be delivered and marked via Canvas Assignments and they will be visible in the Canvas Calendar. Canvas does not replace our existing report cards and as some tasks are still delivered and marked 'offline', Canvas marks may not reflect complete or final student subject results.

Our secondary school students will transition from Google Classroom to Canvas LMS during semester 1, 2024.

Secondary notifications

General information about school events, whole school information and notices are posted in the Secondary Notifications Page. All secondary school students have access to view this information.

Notifications in app

Manage when you wish to receive notifications in the Canvas Parent app by selecting the app Menu and then Manage Students.

Choose which items you want to hear about, including if your child's assignment mark is below a specific percentage.
